Includes one their encounter from Tachibana's perspective

Handsome ~~X~~ Adorably Ugly

The newest installation in the "Kikima" Series ♡

The popular honor student, Tachibana, finally got his hands on the Wandish looking, but lovable Kikima ♡ (And he's incredibly grateful to all the fools who were ignorant of Kikima's adorableness...) However, the school's No. 1 pretty boy Kikima (Oniima) is scheming to break them up! Seeing Tachibana and Oniima together, Kikima misunderstands and runs away!!

"Don't even Joke! There's no way I'd let go of someone as cute as you!"

Page 41:

"If a bird doesn't sing" is a haiku composed of three lines, illustrating the characters of three of the Sengoku (Warring States) era generals: Oda Nobunaga (strength), Toyotomi Hideyoshi (strategy), and Tokugawa Ieyasu (patience). In a parable, the three are said to be sitting by a tree. A cuckoo bird lands on a branch, and a Buddhist monk asks them each what they will do if the bird does not sing: "If a bird doesn't sing, I'll kill it. If a bird doesn't sing, I'll make it sing. If a bird doesn't sing, I'll wait for it to sing."
